Abstract (Basic): DE 2844124 A

The coin operated gaming machine uses an illuminated display to simulate the effect of a roulette table, and has a selection facility, that permits the player to control the combination of wagers and the overall odds. The machine has two coin entry points (MS1, MS2) that allow up to three specific wagers to be selected in one play. The main display field has a central annular display in readiness (10) and a segmented display (16, 18, 20, 22) that is illuminated at a controlled rate.

Selectors (Tx) provide a facility to select the odds associated with a specific playing cycle. A manually actuated control (X) initiates repeat cycles that are internally controlled by an N stage counter, that allows repetitive operation up to a max. value.

Abstract (Basic): DE 3830648 A

A coin-operated gaming machine has three discs (6) carrying numbers or symbols that can be rotated in a pseudo random cycle to generate combinations that may have a winning value. The combinations are viewed through windows (7). Winning amts. may be paid through a delivery chute (9) or can be accumulated as indicated on a display (10).

Special play possibilities are indicated on a series of displays (15). An additional game possibility is provided by a series of displays (17) indicating increased risk odds that can result in greater returns.

ADVANTAGE - Increases the number of gambling possibilities.

Abstract (Equivalent): DE 3830648 C

Coin-operated playing machine (3) with a symbol unit (1) which possesses rotating bodies (10) with the winning symbols stopped by a random number generator and indicating the result. A chance-increasing unit (17) is set by a previous win and includes a risk ladder (18), a total loss indicator (20) and a risk key (21). Microcomputer (24) controls the game.

The chance-increasing unit has in addition to the individual winning elements (19) a field (22) to show a simple win and then the next play is controlled by this unit without danger of losing the first win used for this following wager.

Abstract (Basic): DE 4126287 A

The game of chance in the form of a slot machine having three symbol carrying discs (6) that are rotated in a pseudo random cycle has coins entered through a slot (14). The symbols on the disc indicate multipliers (7) for winning and the fixed values are displayed in windows (5).

A display window (15) indicates the level of the amount entered as a base value. This may be changed by rotating a selector (16) to a position indicating a new value. Increased gambling odds are indicated on a separate display (20).

ADVANTAGE - Allows value of game to be increased.
